

Sam Benton

Sam Benton is a Senior Health Care Analyst, in Performance Measurement, at the National Committee for Quality Assurance (NCQA). Prior to NCQA, Mr. Benton worked on federal regulatory issues related to coding and reimbursement and health IT for the American College of Physicians, including serving as a liaison to the American Medical Association's Relative Value Update Committee.

Mr. Benton's interests are particularly focused on the development of computable representations of quality measures, using common information technology standards. His work has included the development and reevaluation of new and existing health care quality measures used in the Healthcare Effectiveness Data and Information Set (HEDIS®). HEDIS® is a tool used by more than 90 percent of America's health plans to measure performance on important dimensions of care and service.

Mr. Benton is a graduate of Texas A&M University and is currently pursuing his Executive Master's in Health Systems Administration at Georgetown University.
